

COURT GIVES ITS DECISION

La Follette Ticket Will Appear in the Republican Columns Election Day.

VOTE OF COURT THREE TO ONE

Judge Cassoday the Only Justice Who Holds for the Ticket Headed by Cook as the Republican Nominees.

(Special to The Gazette.)

Madison, Oct. 5.—Governor La Follette's name will appear upon the republican ballot at the November election. This was the gist of the decision of the supreme court this morning in the decision handed down in the noted suit. Chief Justice Cassoday decided the case in favor of the ticket headed by Samuel Cook and nominated at the opera-house convention, and the other three—Justices Marshall, Dodge, and Winslow—decided in favor of the La Follette ticket. The decision was filed this morning and the opinion will be filed later by Justice Marshall. This will include the points of law on which the case was decided, and does not enter at all into the merits of the case of the La Follette delegates of the state convention last May. It is merely on statutory and technical grounds that the present decision was reached. The majority of the court holds with the arguments of Cook's attorneys that the case affects the liberties of the people sufficiently for the court to take jurisdiction, but the court holds that the old La Follette state central committee must decide even though biased and prejudiced. The court also holds that the findings of the national republican convention has no significance over the express statutory provision of section 35. This section is as follows:

Right of candidates to party name. (Sec. 35, Statutes of 1893.) In case of a division in any political party, and a claim by two or more factions thereof to the same party name, the officer with whom the certificates of nomination are required to be filed shall, in certifying such nominations or preparing ballots, give preference of name to the convention or caucus thereof held pursuant to the call of the regularly constituted party authorities, and if the committee representing the other faction present no other party name such officer may designate the same in such manner as will best distinguish the nominations thereof. When two or more conventions or caucuses shall be held and the nominations thereof certified, each claiming to be the regular convention or caucus of the same political party, preference in designation shall be given to the nomination of the one certified by the committee which had been officially certified to be authorized to represent the party; when no party convention or caucus is held by the party entitled to nominate as a party, the names of the nominees for any office, who shall be designated in nomination papers as members of or candidates of such party, shall be certified and printed on the official ballots with the party principle they represent. In case two or more nomination papers are filed for the same office, each having the same party designation, they shall be certified and printed on such ballots with the party principle they represent.

EXPERTS SCENT A GREAT BATTLE IN THE EAST TODAY

Londoners Figure That the Japanese Are About To Begin Their Fight on Kuropatkin.

London, Oct. 5.—Fighting on an extensive scale is about to occur in the vicinity of Mukden. A majority of the dispatches from the front, as well as from St. Petersburg, indicate that the Japanese are preparing to attack Gen. Kuropatkin in force.

The big battle will probably take place at the pass, for it is there that most of the Russians are gathered. Gen. Kuropatkin having fortified the pass and defended it with 100,000 men.

Battle Fleet May Never Sail. While awaiting the clash of the armies about Mukden the military experts are speculating on the delay in the sailing of the Baltic fleet for Port Arthur. Emperor Nicholas was believed to bid the fleet farewell Tuesday, but he did not go to Revel. The Russian admiralty announced at night that he had merely postponed the trip to the fleet for several days.

To the war experts of London, however, the delay means the abandonment of the plan to send the fleet to the far east and the abandonment of Port Arthur to whatever fate the Japanese may carve out for it in spite of Gen. Stoessel's heroic defense.

Reports Checking Jap Outposts. Expectations of a big battle near Mukden appear to be founded mainly on Gen. Kuropatkin's report that the Japanese outposts are again most active. His report shows that all the Japanese attacks thus far have been repulsed, but intimates that the movements of the enemy thus far were merely to screen the advance of the three big armies under Oyama.

WEEKLY SUMMARY OF CROP CONDITIONS

Temperature During the Week Has Been Especially Favorable for Harvesting.

Washington, Oct. 5.—The weather bureau's weekly summary of crop conditions is as follows:

"The temperature during the week ended Oct. 3, 1904, has been generally favorable for maturing and harvesting late crops, although excessively warm in portions of Kansas and the southern states. Heavy to killing frosts, causing some damage, were reported from Wisconsin. Drought continues in the upper Ohio valley and midwest, is noted in Oklahoma and South Dakota.

"Corn has experienced another week of favorable conditions, but frost was injurious in Wisconsin, much was blown down and damaged in Illinois, and dry weather is needed in Iowa to prepare the crop for cribbing. Corn is practically safe in Nebraska; less than 10 per cent is in danger from frost in central Indiana, Iowa and South Dakota, 20 per cent in northern and central Illinois.

"While thrashing of spring wheat again was delayed by rains, this work is generally well advanced. "With high temperature and practically no rain during the week in the cotton region, the staple has continued to open rapidly in all sections.

"Tobacco is practically all housed and curing is progressing. "High winds caused considerable damage to apples. A good crop is being picked in New England and Iowa.

"Complaints of rot in potatoes continue, but a good crop is being gathered."

VETERANS DIE BY THE HUNDRED

Despite High Mortality Number of Pensions Will Not Decrease.

Washington, Oct. 5.—Veterans of the civil war are dying at the rate of 100 a day. Commissioner of Pensions Ware makes this statement, and adds that applications for pensions are being filed at an average rate of 700 a day. The high mortality among veteran pensioners is resulting in an increase in applications by widows and minors, and will not soon produce any reduction in the number of pensions.

HARVARD PRESIDENT DEFINES GENTLEMAN

Incidentally, Raps the Noley Student Who Goes Bawling About the College Yard When Excited.

Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 5.—In defining his idea of democratic gentlemen to the freshman class at Harvard President Eliot gave by no means a gentle rap at the college "sport."

"I heard it stated," he said, "that the gentleman's mark at Harvard is 'C,' the different grades of scholarship being respectively A, B, C, D, and E. A is excellence, B is failure. You can easily see where C belongs."

"A gentleman, therefore, must not be an effective strong worker, not a strenuous seeker after knowledge. Can you imagine a more indifferent, shiftless, lazy person loafing through four years of college life? Or can there be a stupider idea than that that gentleman especially is a gentleman in democracy?"

President Eliot's design was to sum up what all the others had said, the gist of his remarks being that a freshman to be and to do everything a true Harvard man ought to be and do, must be a democratic gentleman.

"A gentleman when found," he said, "would also be quiet. If a man is heard bawling about the college yard one can feel perfectly sure that he is either an outsider or a newcomer. He must never do anything that will hurt a woman, or a child, or an inferior. He must be generous and efficient, and deferential to age, beauty, excellence, skill and all worthy things."

HENRY C. PAYNE PASSES AWAY

Postmaster General of the United States Died Shortly After Six Last Evening.

FUNERAL TO BE HELD ON SUNDAY

Will Be Interred in Forest Home Cemetery, Milwaukee—Services To Be Held at All Saints Episcopal Cathedral.

(Special by Scripps-McRae.)

Washington, Oct. 5.—Flags on the government buildings are flying at half-mast today in respect to the memory of the late Postmaster General Payne. The president will issue a general order closing all the various executive departments on Friday, the day of the funeral here. Every postoffice in the United States will be closed during the hours of the funeral. The services here will be held at St. John's Episcopal church. They will be attended by all the prominent officials of the government and representatives for foreign nations. The remains will be shipped to Wisconsin Friday afternoon and final services will be held at All Saints Episcopal church, Milwaukee, Sunday morning. The interment will be in Forest Home cemetery, Milwaukee.

The postmaster general died at 6:10 p. m. He died peacefully, without a struggle. Cause of death, disease of mitral valve and dilatation of the heart.

At the bedside when the end came were Mrs. Payne, Rev. Dr. Dunlap of St. John's Episcopal church, Maj. and Mrs. W. S. Cameron of Jamestown, N. Y., Mr. and Mrs. Winfield Cameron of Milwaukee, Charles L. and Miss Louise Jones, relatives; Private Secretary Whitney, Miss Marie Barbiere and Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Mason of Washington, old-time friends of Mrs. Payne, and the aged negro messenger in the department of the postmaster general.

President Is Last Caller.

President Roosevelt was the last official caller at the Payne apartments. He was preceded a few moments by Secretary of State Hay. Neither entered the sick room and the president scarcely had left the hotel when Mr. Payne breathed his last. To the newspaper men he delivered his eulogy of Mr. Payne.

Funeral services will be held in St. John's Episcopal church here on Friday, and in the afternoon the body will be taken to Milwaukee in the private car of A. J. Earling of Chicago. Services will be held there Sunday in All Saints Episcopal church and interment will be in Forest Home cemetery.

Progress of Disease.

The postmaster general was stricken on Sept. 28 with heart failure, shortly after his return from a trip on which it was believed he had recovered his strength, undermined by overwork. The ensuing days witnessed a brave fight for life, in which several times the end was thought imminent.

Payne's Life in Brief.

For more than two decades Mr.

Payne had been a conspicuous character in state and national politics. In business, as well as in politics, he always maintained the confidence and trust of men dealing with large affairs. He was born in Ashfield, Mass., Nov. 23, 1843, and received a home training calculated to develop habits of industry and to fit him for a life of usefulness. His ancestors were Puritans, his father having been the descendant of an Englishman who settled in Braintree, Mass., in 1630.

Young Payne was educated in the Shelburne Falls Academy, graduating in 1859. He removed to Milwaukee in 1863, and for four years was a clerk in a dry goods store. He speedily forged to the front, however, possessing a surplus energy that enabled him to take a leading part in public movements. In 1867 he married Lydia W. Van Dyle, and that event he always considered as the date from which he reckoned his rise to fame and prosperity.

Becomes Party Leader.

In 1872 he first became noted in politics. Almost instantly he sprang into prominence, being selected as the representative of Wisconsin on the Republican national committee. Then for ten years he was postmaster in Milwaukee, retiring in 1886.

"The political success of Mr. Payne is considered to have been remarkable. He knew intimately men and conditions, and he was always patient in his methods. The rank and file were taken into his confidence, and apparently he never forgot that party interests should always be above individual interests." It is said of him that when difficulties arose he disarmed personal opposition by tolerance and gave concessions by tactful concessions. He was a tactician, but rarely dogmatic, and few men possessed greater ability to make and retain friends.

Shows Tender Nature.

In his private life Mr. Payne was liberal in his charities, broad in his interest in public affairs and civic progress and generous in his sympathies. His kindly nature was proverbial. This was shown especially in his treatment of his invalid wife.

Since Mr. Payne's appointment as Postmaster General on Jan. 8, 1902, he had become, if that were possible, a more busy man than he had previously been. But he dearly loved to play whist and often engaged old friends in his favorite pastime. He was a communicant of the Episcopal church, to which he was deeply attached and to which he was a liberal but unostentatious contributor. He leaves no children.

BANKER FIGHTING TERM IN STATE PRISON BITTERLY

Rollin Ellison Objects To Being Sent to State Prison on the Plea of His Being Guilty.

Goshen, Ind., Oct. 5.—Rollin Ellison, formerly president of banks at La Grange and Topeka, objected to being sentenced to the penitentiary on a plea of guilty he had entered last April. His lawyers urged that the second case against him be tried, alleging that the prosecution had no evidence on which a penitentiary sentence could be based and that this fact would be brought out by the trial of the second charge, which was similar to the first, that of receiving deposits in his banks when he knew they were insolvent.

Fate Rests on Second Case.

When Ellison was called before Judge Daisman, Thomas L. Marshall of Columbia City, employed by depositors of the defunct banks to assist in the prosecution of Ellison, asked that sentence be passed in the old case, saying that if the defendant was sentenced to the penitentiary the other cases against him would be dropped. The defense resisted, and the court called for the evidence in the case wherein there was a plea of guilty. In the afternoon Judge Daisman rescinded this order and said the plea of guilty would go over, indicating that Ellison would be punished according to evidence given in the second case.

DELIVER SUGAR BEETS ON MONDAY

FACTORY READY FOR OPERATIONS ON FIFTEENTH.

TRANSPORTATION OF BEETS

Process of Changing Fleishy Roots Into Sugar and Fodder is an Interesting One.

Nothing can be more apparent than the evolution of system and the improvement of methods taking place in the beet sugar sections of the country. The influence of the industry is affecting the industrial and social status of every community possessing a factory. In the city of Janesville though the plant was not moved yet started making sugar, a change in the industrial and commercial affairs is noticeable. The location of the factory here draws many farmers from the farther parts of the surrounding country who would otherwise do their trading in towns nearer to them. In the industrial it has caused the employment through the summer of about two hundred Janesville men who would probably have been idle or gone to other places for work and it has brought here about two hundred working men, half of whom have permanently settled in the city with their families. It will also mean employment for still more local residents from the time when the factory starts up next week to the time when the last barrel of sugar made from this season's crop is refined some time about April of next year.

Practically Completed
The work of building is practically completed though the structures do by no means present a finished appearance and the work of turning the fleshy roots of the beet plant into snowy white sugar will commence a week from today. The sheds into which the beets are unloaded from the farmers' wagons and box cars are completed and the channels that carry the product from the dumping place to the main building are now being finished. The main building where the work of manufacture and refining goes on will be ready for work by next Monday. Everything in this building with the exception of the window casings and the partitions of the chemist's laboratory and superintendent's office is of non-inflammable material. The floors and roof are of concrete and the stairs and other finishings of iron. The three upper floors are in running order now and the concrete floor of the lower story is being laid and the machinery placed.

Engine Room
To furnish the great amount of steam continually used and the motive power for running the plant there has been installed in the engine room eight boilers of two hundred and fifty-horse-power each, or a total horse power of two thousand. The boilers are of the upright water tube pattern with Murphy stokers, the only ones of their kind in this part of the state and probably the best boiler plant in Wisconsin. An immense amount of smoke will roll from each boiler and to carry this high above the surrounding ground and create a draft for the furnaces a stack made entirely of tile, one hundred and sixty feet high and eight feet inside diameter, has been erected. This gigantic chimney was built by the Alphonse Custodis Chimney Construction company of New York city. The base is twenty feet in diameter and gradually tapering from this width to a narrower at the top, the chimney presents a shapely appearance to be seen for miles around, marking a spot where hundreds of human beings are hustling to and fro busy with the production of sugar like a swarm of bees filling the comb with honey for future use.

Store Rooms
In the store rooms are thousands of dollars worth of rubber, packing, brass tubing, valves, and other costly steam fittings which are used so extensively in the manufacture of sugar. No other plant than a sugar refinery uses more of this material which is so expensive. The sugar warehouse is the only portion of the plant that has not been rushed along and it is now practically at the same stage of construction that it was two months ago. All the sugar made at first and until this warehouse is completed will be shipped out immediately, orders now lying in the office for twenty carloads to be shipped as soon as possible.

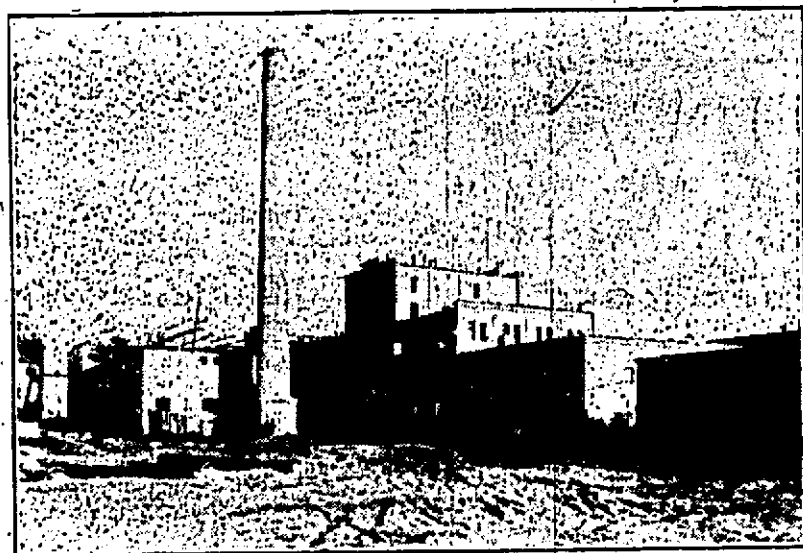

Office Building
The weighing rooms which are now being used as temporary offices will be vacated by the first of next week and the office building occupied. This building will be absolutely modern in all respects and will excel anything of its kind in this vicinity. It is a three story brick structure of handsome design and besides being used for the offices there will be four bedrooms, bath rooms and toilet rooms for the use of the superintendent, chief engineer and chemists who must be with in call at any time, should anything go wrong. Two wagon scales and one car scale will be the weighing equipment of the firm and with this no farmer will have to wait long before he is served in this department.

Good Driveways
When the farmer leaves the public highways with his load of beets he will drive immediately on to a concrete bridge spanning the ditch at the side of the road. This bridge will be twenty-five feet in width in order that the teams can pass each other with ease. A drive way is being built from the bridge to and through the dumping sheds of concrete and brick. First a layer of concrete is put down and the brick are laid on a layer of sand on the surface of the concrete and cement is being used to fill the spaces between the brick.

Superintendent Here
Sugar superintendent, J. W. Wolfe, is now here and the work of manufacture all goes under his direction. His brother, W. W. Wolfe, is the chief chemist for the company and takes care of all the work connected with the testing. As yet no beets have been tested here because Mr. Wolfe is still busy preparing his laboratory which is located on the second floor of the main building. He said yesterday: "The beets I have seen are good in appearance though the continued rainy weather may have lowered the per cent of sugar in them."

Preparations for Work
Active preparations to begin next week are now going on and the men that will be employed are being picked. A large number of Janes-villie men will be hired because two shifts will be run a day each shift working twelve hours, from seven to seven. 10,000 tons of coal, 2,000 tons of coke and 4,000 tons of lime stone have been ordered and some will be here by Monday. Barrels and bags have been bought that will hold 10,000 pounds of sugar, the anticipated production of the factory this year.

ROCK COUNTY SUGAR CO. PLANT

First Beets Next Week
If all the beets that have been ordered in from the farmers in this vicinity for delivery next week are brought in the factory will start work on the 15th of the month. The capacity of the sheds where they are dumped by the farmers is 20,000 tons, being 400 feet in length and 200 in width. The pulp drier is being put in readiness and it is expected will be ready to dry the first residue sent off from the separating room so that it can be shipped immediately. Two carloads of this dried pulp will be shipped a day to the east where it is used extensively as a fodder for cattle. The introduction of sheep raising in a large way would pay here now, because of the low price at which this, which is the best fodder obtainable, can be purchased.

Run Night and Day
With the exception of six hours every Sunday which time will be given up to cleaning, the factory will run steady day and night, with two shifts of men each working twelve hours and seven days of the week. The management expects to use 400,000 tons of beets this year, the daily capacity being: minimum, 600 tons, and maximum, 900. The capacity varies according to the per cent of sugar, being less if the per cent is high, and more if low.

Process of Manufacture
Finally the work of the farmer is about completed and now he is about to find out the success of his new venture of raising beets. He has now to plow up, top and deliver them to the factory. On their arrival they are unloaded in sheds of special construction, where, with good care, they may safely be stored for over a month. They must be kept fairly dry, but may freeze if not allowed to thaw again. These storage sheds are V-shaped, the bottom terminating in a channel which is covered over when not in use. As fast as the beets in a certain shed are required, water is conducted into the channel, and by removing the covers one at a time the roots are fed gradually and floated by current into the factory.

In the Factory
Once within the walls of the main building the revolving arms of the great washhouse shaft carry them slowly through a trough of water, rinsing them thoroughly and turning them over to a screw which conveys them down from water. To a bucket elevator, which in turn, takes them to the top of the house where, after being weighed automatically, each weighing registered, they fall, half a ton at a time, into a hopper in the bottom of which is a set of rapidly revolving knives. These knives are serrated and cut the beets into little strips, called cosettes, which fall, the moment they are sliced, down a chute into the open mouth of one of the cells of the diffusion battery.

Extraction of Juice
This portion of the machinery is an arrangement of upright vats, within the cells of which the extraction of the juice takes place by a sort of steeping process. After each cell full has received twelve saturations of hot water under pressure the pulp is emptied out at the bottom and thus released it falls in a wet mass and must be run through a press to relieve it of its excessive moisture. The pulp is then carried to the pulper where all the water disappears and it is ready for shipment as cattle fodder. Meanwhile the juice that is drawn from the diffusion is carried to the measuring tank, the quantity is recorded, and is conducted into the first carbonating tanks—huge upright receptacles where a considerable quantity of milk of lime is added. The lime and juice are then treated with an injection of carbonic acid gas, which causes precipitation of the lime as soon as it is pumped to the filter presses, which is done directly afterward, the lime taking with it the impurities contained in the beet juice.

Filtering Juice
From the first carbonation the juice is carried to the filter presses, a somewhat elaborate and interesting bit of machinery, where, by means of heavy cloths hung over perforated frames, the fluid, passing through under heavy pressure, is filtered and comes out perfectly transparent, a pale yellow in color. The residue, or lime-cake as it is called, is left in the alternate frames, which are made hollow, in a solid mass of about the consistency of putty. This is conveyed out of the factory as fast as the frames are emptied and employed by the farmers as a fertilizer. The juice then goes to a second series of carbonation tanks and is treated over again in a manner similar to that employed in the first. The filtering process is then repeated and the juice, after passing through the mechanical filters, in which boys are used instead of cloths, is ready for the first stage of reduction, to sugar proper—evaporation.

Evaporation
The boiling down produces a substance known as "thick juice," which after further, thorough filtration and clarification, passes into the vacuum pans for the final process of crystallization. It next appears in the form of a mass of sugar, a mixture of crystallized sugar and molasses, which is dropped into the mixers, whence it is drawn off to supply the centrifugal machines directly underneath. The centrifugal force drives the substance from the bottom to the sides, and the molasses being forced through the perforations, the crystals remain in a solid cake—it takes but a few minutes to transform the brown mass into snowy whiteness. A little washing, and it is ready to be dropped into a conveyer which carries it to the drier, for it is still moist when it leaves the machinery. The sugar is then ready for packing and shipping and the entire process from the time it is taken from the sheds to when it is removed from the drier has taken but about twenty hours.

Town Talk.

John Hayes, an eccentric war veteran, who lives at Muscau, Grant county, recently made an application for admission to the soldiers' home. Mr. Hayes is over 70 years old, and is nearly blind. He has a memorable war record. He was a member of Capt. Winslow's crew on the Kearsage. Under the captain's instruction he fired the third shot, which pierced the Alabama below the water line and sent it to the bottom of the ocean. The Alabama was one of the most harmful commerce destroyers, built and purchased in England with full knowledge of the English government. The battle occurred near the coast of France on June 19, 1864. Shortly after the battle the Kearsage made a cruise along the Atlantic coast and landed at Boston. The city of Boston voted to each of the members of the crew a gold medal. Congress voted them bronze medals. Mr. Hayes never received his medal until about three weeks ago. The medal had been mislaid, and one day Mr. Hayes sent a letter to the office of the secretary of war at Washington. Fortunately when the letter was read it was by a brother of Capt. Winslow. The papers of identification contained a letter written by Capt. Winslow shortly after the battle commending Mr. Hayes for his bravery. Mr. Hayes will be admitted to the soldiers' home this fall.

"Exit the chorus girl pampadour" is the latest mandate from that misty fount of fashion's decrees.

No longer is Milady to carry about with her a wall of upturned hair that looks like a seaweed rolled over a large sized chunk of bologna sausage. The graceful billows of peroxide tresses, which have been the pride of Dottie Twinkletons and Madge Silkenox in their nightly maneuverings before the brilliant calcium at the safety may no longer proudly wave, for fashion has given the order: "Hail down the pomp!"

The pompadour has been taken the place of the upturned hair in favor still before the advent of the upturned roll, the part in the middle. Now, Milady, to be among those present, must part her hair in the middle, and comb it back slightly to either side. Of course this has a tendency to make some look like flat heads, but they don't mind this so long as they are in style. The pompadour is fast disappearing in Janesville, and discarded "rats" are being relegated to the attic for future reference. A has le pompadour!

Ordinarily the pirate ship "Jackson Club" pays no attention to tramp schooners whose disreputable and generally unimpressive appearance immediately attracts the attention of the crew of alcohol on board. Of late, however, prey of any kind has been scarce on the high seas and the other day the captain of the "Jackson Club" ran up the black flag and overhauled one of these freighters that was sailing glibly, three sheets to the wind. The freighter was looking for a commission, having been out of employment for some time, and the jovial captain of the "Jackson Club" at once supplied the deficiency. It was a gruesome joke. The paper the tipsy captain carried to a local undertaker read: "Please deliver to bearer one second-hand coffin. Will do his own work."

LIEUT. GOVERNOR WAS IN THE CITY

Conferring with La Follette Men Yesterday—Entertained by Dr. E. D. Roberts.

Lieut. Governor Davidson was in conference with the La Follette men in Janesville yesterday. He arrived late in the afternoon and was entertained at the home of Dr. E. D. Roberts. A visit was made at the La Follette club headquarters in the evening.

The Pennsylvania railroad company has awarded contracts for 600 steel hopper coal cars to the Pressed Steel Car company and the Cambria Steel company, each concern to build 300. Eighty passenger coaches will be built in its various car shops in Wilmington, Del., and Altoona, and at Meadow, N. J. Orders have also been issued for the building at the Altoona shops of twenty-five powerful freight engines, to be used on the lines west of Pittsburgh. The company is considering a bid for 200 coal cars. The officials of the railroad say they are in urgent needs of cars.

Every member of the Wisconsin Lodge No. 14, I. O. O. F., is requested to be present at the meeting this evening. Important business will be transacted.

BRIEF HISTORY OF THE STATE

REPUBLICAN IN SENTIMENT FOR NEARLY FIFTY YEARS.

WAS SIX YEARS DEMOCRATIC

A Few Bits of Political History That May Interest the Reader.

The state of Wisconsin has been a member of the union for fifty-six years. The republican party is just fifty years old yet during the fifty six years of existence the state has been governed by twenty-one republican governors, six democrats and one whig. Wisconsin is a republican state. Since 1855 it has been republican except for the election of Gov. Taylor in 1873, during the now famous granger movement and Gov. Peck in 1890, on the Bennett law and again in 1892 when the Cleveland landslide occurred and swept states both north and east into the democratic column. In 1855 Barstow, a democrat, was supposedly elected governor against Bashford, the first republican nominee. However, the supreme court took jurisdiction of the case and set aside Barstow's certificate of election and Bashford was declared the governor. In 1857 Gov. Randall was elected by a majority of four hundred and fifty-four over Cross the democratic candidate. Two years later, in 1859, Randall was again elected over Hohart, democratic by a majority of 7,459. In 1861 Governor Harvey was elected governor against Ferguson, democratic, by a majority of 9,223. Governor Harvey, it will be remembered, lost his life at Pittsburg landing while on a southern trip visiting our state's sick and wounded soldiers. Gov. Lewis, who died recently at Columbus, was the next republican governor and was elected over Palmer, the democratic or copperhead candidate, by a majority of 23,664. In 1865 General Lucius Fairchild was elected governor by a majority of 10,002, the total vote for the state being some 15,000 less than it was two years before. Fairchild was re-elected in 1867 over his opponent, Fairbairn, by a majority of 4,761, with an increased vote. In 1869 he was again elected having a majority of 8,363.

Washburn defeated Doanville of Racine, by a majority of 9,391. On his second attempt he was defeated in 1873 during the height of the granger movement by Taylor by a majority of 15,575. Taylor was the democratic candidate two years later and was defeated by Ludington, republican, by a majority of 8,411. In 1877 Smith, republican, defeated Mallory, democratic, 8,073. In 1879 Smith was re-elected over Jenkins, democratic, and May green back by an increased majority. His total vote being 13,363. In 1881 Rusk was elected by a majority of 11,667. His opponents, being Pratt, democratic; Kane, republican; and Allen, green back. In 1883 (the year Cleveland carried) Rusk was again elected by a majority of 11,667. In 1885 Rusk was re-elected by a majority of 6,450. His opponents being Pratt, democratic; Hastings, prohibitionist, and Uley, greenback. In 1886 Rusk again carried the state by a largely increased majority having 18,718 majority over his three opponents. Woodward, democratic; Olin, prohibitionist and Cleghorn, people's party. In 1888 Hoard, swept in with Harrison by a majority of 18,718, defeating Morgan, democratic; Durant, prohibitionist, and Powell, labor. In 1890 came the Bennett law and Peck, democratic, reversed Hoard's magnificent majority two years before and was elected by a majority of 11,627, defeating Hoard, republican; Alexander, prohibitionist and May, union labor. In 1892 Peck again carried the state but this time by only 7,707, defeating Spooner, republican; Richmond, prohibitionist, and Butt, the people's. In 1894 Upham was elected governor on the republican ticket defeating Peck, democratic; Powell, people's, and Cleghorn, prohibition, by 17,022. Two years later Scofield, republican, swept into the governor's chair on the McKinley ticket by a majority of 85,871, defeating Silverthorn, democratic; Berkey, prohibitionist; Tuttpot, socialist labor, and Henderson, labor, on the largest vote ever polled at an election in Wisconsin. The total figures being 444,091. He was re-elected two years later by a majority of 17,164, defeating Sawyer, democratic; Worsley, people's; Chaffin, prohibitionist; Tuttle, social democrats of America, and Reiss, socialist labor. In 1900 La Follette was elected by a majority of 85,491 on the McKinley ticket, defeating Boeckel, democratic; Smith, prohibitionist; Tuttle, social democratic; Wilkie, social labor. Again, in 1902, La Follette was re-elected by a decreased majority, his total being 21,191, defeating Rose, democratic; Seidel, social democrat; Drake, prohibitionist and Puck, social labor.

A turn-table loaded on two flat cars caused considerable comment in the yards this morning. It was billed from the Whiting Foundry Equipment company of Harvey, Ill., to Sault Ste. Marie.

It is predicted that the seven-hour schedule of the Alton and the Wabash daylight trains between Chicago and St. Louis will be withdrawn next Sunday and the normal running time of eight hours restored. The Eastern Illinois and Illinois Central companies will reduce their time unless these roads restore their trains to the normal schedule. This action is anticipated to prevent an increase in rates of travel.

Frank Morrison, general secretary of the American Federation of Labor, has filed with the Interstate commerce commission a complaint alleging discrimination on the part of the Transcontinental Passenger Association and other railroad associations against the Federation of Labor in the matter of reduced rates for delegates to the national meeting of that organization in San Francisco, beginning Nov. 14.

The Wabash company has contracted for 4,000 tons of iron for the framework of its freight depot at Pittsburg. The building will be 150 feet wide and 800 feet long. It will be equipped with elevators for handling freight cars.

WASHING WITHOUT WATER
Is Like Trying to Get Rid of Dandruff Without Herpicide.
Did you ever see any one trying to wash themselves without soap or water?
If you did what would you say of him?
It is every bit as foolish to try to get rid of Dandruff and to prevent Baldness by feeding the germs which cause it, with Cantharides, Vaseline, Glycerine and similar substances which form the principal ingredients of most so-called Hair Vigors.
Newbro's Herpicide is successful because it attacks and kills the parasite germ which feeds on the hair roots. It is the original and only genuine scalp germicide manufactured.
Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

Coming Attractions.

Klaw & Erlanger's great company of comedians, headed by Thomas G.
Seabrooke, to appear in their production of "The Millionaire" at the Grand Opera House, Thursday evening, November 17th.

The leading principals of Mr. Sea-brooke's support, which will number over 100 people, are Walter Percival, Harry Macdonough, Tony Hart, A. S.
Brown, James Grant, Charles Halton, Charles Ogle, A. Friedlander, John Stepping, Diamond Donner, Josie Intropoli, Lois Ewell, Helen
Dexter, Ethel Intropoli and Vesta Stanton.

Mr. Seabrooke will play the role of John Doe. The foundation of the comic story of "The Millionaire," while Mr. Smith has most cleverly developed, is the fact of a widely known American millionaire that he will die disgraced if he die rich.
John Doe has so much money, that he has to invent extraordinary means to spend it, one of which is to build a theatre and employ a company to appear before a hired audience. Another is to lease a race track in Paris and bet on horses that are to lose.

The piece is a whirlwind of fun from start to finish. It is presented in three acts with scenes representing a street in Nice at carnival time, the lobby and auditorium of a theatre in New York, and the grandstand of the Longchamps race track, Paris, on the day of the Grand Prix. The containing of this company is unusually elaborate.

"The Hoosier Girl,"
"The Hoosier Girl" will entertain a big audience at the Grand Thursday night. The play is one with a rural atmosphere which allows opportunity for rustle fun. Roxann, the Hoosier girl, as presented by Miss Kate Watson, is a jolly, lively, part which is deservedly popular. In make-up and manner there is some resemblance to Sis Hopkins, but Miss Watson is not an imitator, she has a very pleasant natural and easy style of her own and was easily the most interesting person on the stage.

Janesville Daily Gazette, Wednesday, October 5, 1864.--The Meeting Last Night.--The meeting in the court room last night was largely attended, and one of the most excellent one in all respects. After some soul-stirring instrumental and vocal music Mr. Ross, of Madison, was introduced to the audience and in a speech of some length enlisted the close attention of his hearers and was warmly applauded throughout.

Entertainment at Lappin's Hall.--
A company skilled in gymnastics, acrobatic and slack wire performance,
also in ventriloquism and pantomime and dancing, give an exhibition in Lappin's hall tonight. Those fond of such exhibitions will no doubt be greatly pleased by attending the entertainment in Lappin's hall tonight.

The weather today has been as beautiful and balmy as spring. What with copious showers and gentle sunshine, everything that was green is likely to flourish and get a slash for winter. We are glad of it.

"Liberty's Call, or March for Abe and for Andy." Is the title of a new piece of music, solo and choruses, by L. B. Starkweather, of Rockford. It is a good thing for campaign glee clubs and should be in the hands of all such organizations.

Postponement.--The rehearsal of the twelfth mass will be postponed to Friday next on account of the necessary absence of Mr. Towne, the leader of the union.

IN THE BRIDAL PROCESSION

There is a new silk known as peau de suede; and very like its title does it look, having just that dull luster one sees in the best suede gloves. An exquisite example is the bridesmaid's frock in this new pale green, just the faint tint one sees in the early summer apples, with not a tint of yellow in it. The corsage is en bolero, with a lace yoke that is turned up around the shoulders in Capuchin style, each scallop of the lace edged with black velvet piping. The upper sleeve puff is of satin and the lower a succession of tiny and fluffy puffs in white chif-fon and a pliant touch of black velvet. The skirt is arranged in double effect, the upper part cleverly pleated and gathered over the hips and the full Spanish flounce put on in bouffante style, the appliques of lace that head the flounce being lined with white chifon. The whole gown is made with the machine, the fascinating stitch performing all of the fine sewing with firmness and precision.

VERDICT OF THE PARTY

From the report of the Committee on Credentials to the REPUBLICAN NATIONAL CONVENTION, which was unanimously adopted by that convention, June 22, 1904.

Your committee report it to be their final judgment that the convention which elected said John G. Spooner, J. V. Quarles, J. W. Babcock and Emil Baensch as delegates at large, and their alternates at large, to this convention from the state of Wisconsin WAS THE REGULAR CONVENTION OF THE REPUBLICAN PARTY IN WISCONSIN, and that the delegates elected by it are the regular elected delegates at large from the state of Wisconsin to the republican convention, and, as such, are entitled to seats in this convention.

WHY THE STEFFENS LETTER?

From one end of the state to the other the Spooner letter is the subject of comment and discussion. Its absolute candor and honesty appeals to all fair-minded people, and as men lay aside prejudice, for a few moments, and look beneath the surface, many of them discover that back of the Steffens' attack is the man who is now clamoring for third-term endorsement as governor.

Why was the Steffens letter written? What induced the "McClures" to send him into the state in the heat of a campaign to bolster up the governor in the fight he is making for supremacy?

There was a motive back of it and that motive was to besmirch the name of a man who holds first place in the hearts of Wisconsin people. Who inspired the motive and furnished the material for this villainous attack?

Why does the governor so cleverly hate the senator? These are questions which any intelligent man can answer, and they are being answered by the people of the state in a way that may surprise the governor when the verdict is rendered in November.

Isaac Stephenson, of Marinette, comes in for a liberal share of criticism and he owes it to himself as well as to the late Senator Sawyer to come out from cover and explain himself, but Stephenson is a plucky in the deal as compared to the czar at Madison.

The Steffens letter was written as a campaign document, and has been scattered broadcast over the state. The Stephenson barrel, or some other, was tapped liberally for the purpose.

It was intended as a boomerang, but already the reaction has set in and the recoil will be disastrous to the man behind the gun.

There are too many men living in the state today who were in the legislature of 1885, and their voices are being heard, as the voice of one man, in protest and denial. It will require more than a scrap of conversation between the tomb of Senator Sawyer and the tomb of disgruntled ambition in Marinette, to convince the people that these living witnesses are corrupt today, or were tainted with corruption 20 years ago.

Senator Spooner is today the recognized leader of the republican party in Wisconsin. The governor's attack on him through the Steffens article calls for a spirit of loyalty which will be freely accorded, and when the conflict is over it will be found that the people believe in justice and that they will not be a party to political chicanery.

A BAD TIME TO STRIKE.

"Organized labor can never succeed in this country without the aid of public opinion. It cannot secure that aid unless its aims and practices square with truth, honesty and justice, as well as with practical good sense. Public opinion recognizes the fact that this is not the time, when prices are falling, and business is suffering from a decline, for labor to make a stand, against reasonable readjustment of wages or conditions of trade. Public opinion which has not been slow to denounce the immoral exactions and practices of capital, is now ranging itself upon the side of the employers in the contests with organized labor. This fact doubles the advantage which the employers possess in their contest with labor. It looks as if the trades unions, by their own indiscretion and lack of intelligent leadership, were putting themselves in a position where they were welcoming defeat and disaster. Impartial friends of organized labor will regret this, much as they will appreciate the inevitableness of the conditions producing it."

"Public Opinion" thus discusses the business situation and the strike problem. It is an open question whether there is ever a good time to strike, and the fact is generally recognized that peaceable adjustment of differences between capital and labor troubles is always desirable. There can be no question, however, about the outcome of a strike under present conditions.

Almost every industry has a surplus of labor and many lines are obliged to lay off men and reduce the output.

The Pullman works recently discharged their entire force, and closed for an indefinite period. The plant is running again today with less than half the men usually employed and at reduced wages.

There is no sentiment about these conditions. They are simply the result of contraction, which capital is as helpless to control as labor, and from which both must suffer. The man who has steady employment, on the edge of winter, this year, is extremely fortunate, and if wise, will be content.

The law of supply and demand is an iron-clad law, and it applies to labor just as much as it does to commodities. When the market is glutted a demand can not be created. This is a fact that the labor world will do well to recognize.

THE CAMPAIGN IS ON.

The tardiness of the supreme court in dealing with a question which is of vital interest to the people of the state will no longer act as a bar to a progressive speaking campaign on the part of the conservative element of the party.

Senator Spooner is to speak in Milwaukee tonight and Speaker Cannon of Illinois, under the auspices of the republican national committee will be at Marinette with Senator Quarles the last of the week.

Mr. Cannon will doubtless confine himself largely to national issues, but the fact that he is campaigning, with Senator Quarles evidences the recognition of the anti-third term contingency, and is already disturbing the administration forces.

It was feared by some timid souls that a mistake was made when Mr. Jeffris was induced to take the stump three weeks ago. The only mistake was in the fact that this policy was not adopted three months earlier.

The campaign thus far has been a one-sided campaign. The governor has traveled over the state, sowing seeds of discord unchallenged. His same wardens and other state employees have been equally industrious in rounding up voters, while the opposition aside from the press, has maintained a dignified silence, waiting for the decision of the supreme court.

The Steffens article was the last straw and Senator Spooner's reply may be regarded as the keynote of the active campaign, which will be waged from now until election day.

The many friends of Senator Spooner will be pleased to hear him at the opera house next Saturday night. The governor was unable to beat him for the senate two years ago and he will be unable to beat him and the men who are working with him this year.

A game law which prohibits the building of blinds in the rushes, and permits the running of sneak boats, is a travesty. No wonder the game wardens have plenty of time for politics.

If the McClures want a circulation in Wisconsin their man Steffens should make one more trip to the state and write up the other side of the case. There would be no occasion for gratuitous distribution.

The national administration cannot do less than recognize the party of Senator Spooner and his associates. The national convention set the pace.

It cost $6,000,000 of good republican money to conduct the last McKinley campaign, but no one accused the president of buying the office.

The lack of courtesy shown to national republican speakers is characteristic of La Folletteism. It is the same old rule of ruin policy.

The governor is spending a good deal of money in his campaign, but none of it is used for buying votes.

Win Second Prize

Carter and Morse Capture Second Prize Against Entire Country.

The insurance firm of Carter & Morse received word yesterday of the effect that they had been awarded second prize in a contest which has been conducted by the United States Fidelity & Guaranty Co. on the amount of bond business written for this company during a certain period. The contest was for representatives in cities of the third class such as Janesville and the fact of having won a prize was a complete surprise to the local firm. They were not aware of the existence of a competitive deal and the result of their labors is therefore highly gratifying to them, because there had been no particular effort put forth by them.

Write $1,000,000 Bond

An item which helped no doubt to capture the offer made by the U. S. Fidelity & Guaranty Co. was the writing by Carter & Morse bonds for $1,000,000 on the officers of the Mystic Workers of the World, both supreme and local. This is the largest single bond deal ever transacted in this city or in this vicinity and is one that was sought by many bond companies, so that the local representatives may well feel gratified at the result of their labor. There has also been written by Carter & Morse in the past year some of the largest administration and guardian bonds ever recorded in Janesville, and Rock county—one of them for $750,000 and another for $150,000.

Bonds of all kinds, for positions of trust, are executed, bookkeepers and cashiers, administrators and guardians and court bonds of various sorts, bonds for contractors and receivers; these bonds relieve individuals from the responsibilities placed on them through the signing of bonds for friends. A very fine burglar insurance policy is also written by this company for banks, stores, and residences. This class of insurance has become very popular and justly so. Carter & Morse are general agents for Janesville and Rock county for the United States Fidelity and Guaranty Co.

ALASKA'S EXHIBIT WAS INTERESTING

STILL OUR WORLD'S FAIR VISITORS LIKE TO HANDLE EXHIBITS.

FAIR JAPAN VERY PRETTY

The Missouri Habit of Asking Questions Is a Growing One at Present.

St. Louis Oct. 4.—We were glad to find something that was not marked "please do not handle" and that was the reason we gazed long and lovingly at the Alaska exhibit. Some of the exhibits could make a great hit at the Exposition by labeling everything he had to exhibit "please handle this." The strain is telling on John. He likes to handle things. The privilege of handling things is as grateful to him as a lot of fresh mud to a bevy of children. But even the big locomotives and heavy railway iron over in the Transportation building are labeled "please don't handle." In a part of the building we saw a very comfortable looking bench with a nice back to it, but it bore the words, "This bench is not to sit down on; it is for the display of steel rails." The big model of the Pennsylvania Railway station to be built in New York was labeled "Don't Handle." John vows he will pick up and carry off the first thing that doesn't bear a don't handle tag even if it is one of the Indian squaws on the Pike.

The totem pole seems to be the Alaskan's "family tree." It is a record of the doings of his ancestors. If a great, great grandfather died, not married or was hung a new notch was cut in the totem pole or a new figure carved. These totem poles which surround the native houses on their side of the Alaska building are the first ever brought to this country and were only obtained through the influence of Governor Brady. They are highly prized; some of them having been carved by the aborigines many years ago. After looking at these ancestral monuments we took a trip all through Alaska, up the great Yukon river, the second largest river in the world, to Dawson and the Klondike region. We took a journey on dog sleds, climbed a great glacier and went up the White. We did all this and more with a young man and a big dog, while seated in comfortable chairs in sort of theatre in the Alaska building. The biograph which shows a series of beautiful illuminated and life-like pictures is extensively used in the Exposition. We came upon young men lecturers everywhere who use the biograph to illustrate and demonstrate processes in great manufacturing industries. Preaching to the "world of fair visitors" in pictures is in happy accord with the spirit and purpose of the Exposition, which is to show how things are done. (No other kind of an Exposition would go in the state of Missouri anyway.)

The Missouri asks questions; and after you have answered him he will ask the same question over again. When the guide, in one of the cars of the Ferris wheel, says, "Now if you will look over to your left you will see Jerusalem and the Phillips village in the distance," every Missourian in the car will look to the right and very soon will ask, "Where did you say Jerusalem was?" On every hand we hear the little remark, "I'm from Missouri; you have to show me."

I have just solved a question that has been bothering me ever since a Japanese woman lectured before our club on Japanese art. She told of the extreme simplicity of the Japanese home and its furnishings, how adverse they were to lumbering up the home with useless furniture and bric-a-brac. I wondered why a people so artistic and so skillful at making things should be satisfied with a screen and a foot-stool with a blue cup and saucer on it and a few tooth-picks as the only furnishings of a room. The reason is plain. I picked a screen in the Japanese section of the Varied Industries building and found it would take $750 to induce them to part with it. A vase was marked $250. After the frugal Jap has bought a screen and a vase he has reached the limit of his purse. His home is furnished. He needs no chairs or tables so long as he has a screen and vase. T. A. D.

INSANE MAN AT LARGE NEAR CITY

Endeavored to Stop Vehicles Driven by Women in Region Two Miles East of Janesville.

Wives and daughters of farmers living two miles east of the city while driving between five and six yesterday afternoon were badly frightened by a demented man who attempted to stop the horses and when successful laughed and screamed in an unearthly manner. When a posse of men returned to capture the man he had vanished. The stranger was light complexioned, had light hair, and was well dressed, but further than this the ladies were too frightened to take note. He was believed to be the man who escaped from Jefferson last week and was said to have come to Janesville, but it was later learned that Charles Buchter had been apprehended by the sheriff at Waubesa and returned to his home.

There are five Belvidere men spending their vacations in Janesville. They are very anxious about what is going on in their native city. There is a grand jury in session there. The jury will hold forth all of next week. The Belvidere men are planning to return home week after next.

These men thought that they could enjoy life better out of their home city for a time and they have selected Janesville as their temporary abode. But they are very anxious to learn of the home news—especially word from the jury room. They have caused a famine in Belvidere papers in this city, but whether they have found anything there of personal interest is not known.

AFTER CLAM-BAKE CAME THE DELUGE

HARROWING EXPERIENCE OF AN OUTING PARTY.

LAUNCH CAUGHT ON REEF

Composed Mostly of Mud, a Race to Escape Storm—Fast for Almost Two Hours.

Out in the terrific electrical storm last evening eleven men in a boat, driven fast upon a reef far from shore, wiggled, twisted, and jerked in an effort to get free while the lightning filled the sky with pyrotechnics and the rain fell in torrents. It was George McKee's party and they were homeward bound from a clam-bake at the Fred Howe cottage.

River Turned From Channel In the party were W. H. Greenman, D. W. Hayes, Edward Carpenter, Victor Richardson, Fred Howe, Harry Carter, Geo. Simpson, F. C. Cook, George McKee, and two others whose names shall be flamencoed by request, but never Cook and Simpson, rather than risk the buffeting waves, drove home before the storm broke. The remaining—bold navigators—started to race with the storm and might have been successful had not the channel of the river shifted. Capt. Richardson was at the wheel and George McKee was attending the engine, when the craft was suddenly driven full force upon a mud bank.

Beyond Human Aid The ship's charts were consulted and it was discovered that no such mud-bank existed in that part of the Rock river. So the crew continued to turn furiously, pushing the ship harder and harder around. This had continued about fifteen minutes when it was decided to hoist the chart overboard and commence a retreating movement. Meanwhile the rain was falling by the bucketful and there were sad and anxious hearts at home—probably. The mud was too soft for wading purposes and too thick for swimming. So the crew, beyond the reach of human help, worked for an hour and a half, strained and groaned and said desperate things. At last, just as the storm had exhausted its fury, the labors were rewarded. They steamed into port quite delighted with the afternoon's outing.

NEARLY SEVERED A TOE WITH A PICK

Implement Wielded by Godfrey Holtz Glanced While He Was Working in Ditch.

Godfrey Holtz, an employee of McVicar Bros., who resides on Hickory street, sustained a serious accident this morning. While at work digging a sewer trench leading to the Short-land premises, the pick he was handling glanced and struck his left foot, crushing the third toe and nearly severing it from the foot. He was removed to the office of Dr. Judd where the crushed bone was removed, and the almost severed member was sewed back to the foot again.

HYPNOTIST KNOWN HERE IS FAMOUS

Henry Ahrensmeier, Former Beloit Resident, Delights London, England, Audiences.

Henry Ahrensmeier, whose hypnotic feats in England have attracted wide attention, went to London a year ago from Beloit. He came to Beloit from Madison about ten years ago and worked in a machine shop until his hypnotic performance and skill in magic brought him before the public. He has also appeared in Janesville many times.

One of Ahrensmeier's favorite feats is the driving of horses while blindfolded. His last Beloit drive will be remembered. Four horses were hitched to a coupe filled with well known citizens and the horses ran away. Ahrensmeier kept his seat and landed his passengers in safety. But it was a thrilling experience and made Ahrensmeier's fortune.

BLACK BALL CAUSES NEW CLUB TO FORM

Twenty High School Boys Plan to Oppose Rusk Lyeum in Literary Work.

In opposition to the Rusk Lyeum the present boys' literary club at the high school about twenty young men have secured permission from the faculty to form a similar organization and have the same rights in the building as the Lyeum. The object is to allow more than twenty-five of the scholars to reap the benefits of outside literary work, which number the Lyeum holds as the limit of membership. It is also difficult to gain membership to the Lyeum at present because of the fight that is going on as to the admittance of certain scholars who being turned down by one faction caused the other to turn down all candidates for membership, whose names are presented. Several good speakers and good workers have been shut out this year by the use of the black ball, and these are at the head of the new organization. No definite plans have yet been made for a meeting to elect officers, choose a name and make arrangements for drawing up a constitution and code of by-laws, is called for next Monday night.

BURR JACKSON NOT WORRIED

Told Firemen Not to Mind About Saving Him; But To Put Out the Blaze.

Fire, starting in the woodshed of the Burr Jackson residence on North River street last evening, did considerable damage before the flames could be extinguished. The woodshed is located on an embankment and is above the sleeping room on the first floor where Mr. Jackson was enjoying well merited repose. When Chief Klein and the fire department had arrived on the scene and had been working for some time, some of the women living in the upper story of this structure of many additions cried out that Mr. Jackson was still within the house. Sure enough—Assistant Chief Murphy found him resting contentedly with the water he said to have said when awakened. "Put out the fire." The damage done to structure and furniture is estimated at $200. No insurance.

FIND AN AMAZING LEAK IN THE DAM

Water Runs Under the Cement Work of the New Beloit Dam—Difficulty to Overcome.

Superintendent Adams of the Beloit water power, who has charge of the construction of the new dam at Beloit, thinks that they will be able to raise the head of water early next week. The results of the work so far are very satisfactory for all concerned, with the exception that there is a place where the water runs under the cement work.

At the time of the great flood when the dam was broken many large boulders were brought here from Devil's lake and dumped into the breach, which was twenty feet deep at one place, and now the water leaks through this place, and every effort to check it has so far failed. The only damage it does is a loss of water, and the hopes of stopping it have not been abandoned. Other- wise than in this place, the dam seems to be tight.

OFFICERS WENT LOADED FOR BEAR

TO CAPTURE THE SEVEN DEPERATE CRIMINALS

SAID TO BE ON THEIR WAY

Here With Booty Secured From Monticello Bank—Force of Five Surrounded Trains.

From Monticello, located about forty miles west of here as the crow flies, came a message to Sheriff Appleby at forty-five minutes after three this morning, informing him that the bank there had been broken into, the safe blown, and a large sum of money taken. The informant stated that there were believed to be seven in the gang and that they had driven in a wagon to Evansville and were believed to be on their way to Chicago.

It was a formidable looking force, armed to the teeth with repeating Winchester and other rapid-fire guns, that was immediately marshaled by Sheriff Appleby to meet the incoming train. With Turnkey, Chief of Police, Officer Moseley, and Officer Cox, the sheriff swept down upon the depot ready to begin a cannonade that would have awakened even Spring Brook from its dreamless slumber. The 4:25 was the first train to wheel in and the engineer and fireman viewed the armed force awaiting it with dismay, making ready to hold up their hands. Two harmless hoboes were discovered on this one. After a few minutes the whistle of the 4:50 was heard and the officers prepared once more to surround the seven and take them dead or alive. One solitary boy was the only suspicious personage that could be discovered.

Subsequent Discoveries

It was now getting on toward six sun-up and the officers turned backward to the base of supplies with unqualified disgust written plainly on their faces. Sheriff Appleby reached for a telephone as soon as he got back and called up Monticello. He was informed in a rather sheepish tone by the officer there that subsequent research had revealed the fact that while the outer safe had been blown open, the inner one, containing the valuables, had not been reached, and no money had consequently been taken. Furthermore, it was believed that not seven, but about two men had attempted the job. After hearing this, a premature blot that was forming on the escutcheon of the peerless Eddie Fay, was quickly erased.

Medical aid was at once summoned and while the burn was severe it is not thought she will lose the sight.

The tidings of her departure were a shock to the many loving friends in this city. The deceased was born in Hanover, Germany, January 21, 1852, and came to this country in her childhood. The Yellow Holly

By FERGUS HUME,
Author of "The Mystery of a Hansom Cab," Etc.

Copyright, 1905, by G. W. Dillingham Company

"That is Walter Vane's father?"
"Exactly. And now the father is dead. Walter Vane stands in your shoes. I wish you could prove the marriage, my boy," said Ireland, shaking his head, "but it will be a difficult task."

"I don't care how difficult it is," replied Brendon resolutely. "I am determined to learn the truth."

"Who is the lady?" asked Ireland.
"Miss Dorothy Ward. You don't know anything of her."

Ireland shook his head. "I left the adoration of the aristocracy to Lockwood," he said, with something like a sneer, "but that's neither here nor there, my boy. To make a long story short, I met your mother in Paris, and shortly afterward she died, giving birth to you. Eliza Stokes was with her when she died, and you were given into the charge of that woman. Your mother was buried in Paris in a church.
Vane put up a stone to her—oh, he behaved very well, I don't deny that," added Ireland, but with a dark face.
"He was really fond of her, and I suppose there was a marriage."

"Did my mother ever say anything about it?"

"Never. You asked me that before.
It was an accepted fact. After the death of Rosina her husband went to Italy. I was there, too, and it was at Milan that the episode occurred which led to the dismissal of Eliza Stokes."

"What was that?"

"Why, there was a young English waiter, quite a boy he was, who fell in love with Eliza when she was taking charge of you at the Hotel de Ville.
She refused to marry him and hinted that she loved your father. Vane heard of this and taxed her with impertinence. The end of it was that Eliza said too much and was dismissed.
And Jane Fraser was sent from England by Vane's mother to nurse
you. That looks as though Lady Derrington believed in the marriage."

"It does," admitted Brendon hopefully. "She would not have sent a nurse had anything been wrong. On the other hand, if she had been quite certain about the marriage she might have offered to take charge of me."

"She did, I believe, but your father was so fond of you—for your mother's sake—that he could scarcely bear you out of his sight. However, Eliza went and Jane came, and then your father went to San Remo. You were then two years of age."

"Did not my father return to England during all that time?"

"No. When he left England with your mother he never returned. She died in Paris, and, with you in charge of a nurse, Vane wandered about the continent. I was twice in Italy and saw him—the second time it was at San Remo."

"If you disliked my father so much why did you seek him out?"

"To see you, George. You were her child, and I loved Rosina so dearly."
Ireland stopped, gulped down his emotion, and proceeded more calmly. "Yes,
I was at San Remo when your father was murdered."

"You never told me that before," said
Brendon.

"I never told you anything before," replied Ireland dryly. "And I should not tell you now but that my health is getting so bad that I may not live long. I have an incurable disease, which will sooner or later carry me off
—no, I don't want sympathy. Let me finish the story and then we need not refer to it again. I had intended to leave a written statement behind me for you, George, but this is better, as you can ask me questions about what you do not understand."

"I understand all so far," said
Brendon.

"I can tell you about that. I"—
"There is no need to tell me. I have not the time," Ireland looked at his watch. "In ten minutes I leave for my walk."

George remonstrated. "But this is so important."

"Not so important as my health. I can give you only ten minutes, George.
This Miss Bull called to ask me about the lease of the house to Mrs. Jersey.
I knew nothing about that. When Lockwood died I sold the house to Lord Derrington."

"What to my grandfather?"

"Yes. But had I known he was the purchaser I should not have let him have it. He bought it through an agent. Since then I heard nothing more about the house. I did not even know it was a boarding establishment until it appeared as such in the papers the other day. I wondered what you were doing at the inquest."

"I can explain."

Ireland held up his hand. "I need no explanation. I know that Mrs. Jersey was really Eliza Stokes. I gathered that from the description given by Miss Bull in the course of our conversation. My suspicions were aroused by the fact that Lord Derrington had leased the Amelia square house to Mrs. Jersey."

"Why did he do that?" George spoke more to himself than to Ireland.

"Well," said the old man, rising, "it is my belief that Lord Derrington knew there was a marriage and assisted Mrs. Jersey so that she should hold her tongue. Now there is no more time. I must go out." And Ireland walked to the door.

"One moment," said George on the doorstep. "This blue domino connected with my father's murder—was she never traced?"

"No. There was no means of tracing her. Except that she wore a piece of holly she carried no distinguishing mark."

"Holly?" cried George, astounded.
"Yellow holly?"

"Yes. I don't know how you come to mention it, but the holly worn by the blue domino with whom your father went away had yellow berries."

"It is continued."

It brings to the mind of the reader the fact that the blue domino, which was connected with the murder of Lockwood, was the same as the one which was seen at the inquest. The fact that the domino had yellow berries, and that the holly worn by the blue domino had yellow berries, is a fact which is of great importance.

Uncle Sam says it's all right

Uncle Sam, in the person of ten of his government officials, is always in charge of every department of our distillery. During the entire process of distillation, after the whiskey is stored in barrels in our warehouses, during the seven years it remains there, from the very grain we buy to the whiskey you get, Uncle Sam is constantly on the watch. We dare not take a gallon of our own whiskey from our own warehouse unless he says it's all right.
And when he does say so, that whiskey goes direct to you, with all its original strength, richness and flavor, carrying a UNITED STATES REGISTERED DISTILLER'S GUARANTEE OF PURITY and AGE, and saving the dealers' enormous profits. That's why HAYNER WHISKEY is the best for medicinal purposes. That's why it is preferred for other uses. That's why we have over a quarter of a million satisfied customers. That's why YOU should try it. Your money back if you're not satisfied.

Direct from our distillery to YOU

HOLDS FAITH HEALING LEGAL

New Hampshire Supreme Court Decides Suit for Christian Science.

Concord, N. H., Oct. 5.—The New Hampshire supreme court has handed down a ruling which declares that the practice of Christian Science is legal. Mrs. Jennie A. Spauld of this city brought suit in 1901 against Rev. Irving C. Tomlinson, first pastor of the Concord Christian Science church, alleging deceit, negligence and failure on the part of Tomlinson to cure her of appendicitis. Two trials were held, in which the points gained by each side were about even. At the second trial Judge Peaslee, on motion or counsel for the defense, ordered a nonsuit, to which Mrs. Spauld's counsel took exception, and the case went to the supreme bench. In substance the supreme court holds that the practice of Christian Science is legal and that patients who have resorted to such treatment cannot recover any damages in case the practitioner uses the accepted Christian Science methods of treatment.

HAY CLOSES GURNEY INCIDENT

Secretary Thinks It Has Been Given Too Much Prominence.

Washington, Oct. 5.—One of the first results of the return of Secretary Hay to Washington was the closing up of the incident growing out of the arrest of Secretary Gurney of the British embassy at Lee, Mass. The secretary concluded that entirely too much importance had been given to this matter and as Sir Mortimer Durand, the British ambassador coincided in this view and let the department know that the action of the Massachusetts authorities in remitting the fine and extending an apology was entirely satisfactory to him, the subject was dropped.

Chicago Board of Trade. Chicago, Oct. 4.—Quotations on the board of trade today:

Ireland to Make Sugar. The climate and soil of Ireland having been declared suitable for sugar beets, 3,000 acres near Cork are to be planted with these tubers, and it is expected that ere long the United Kingdom will be able to grow all its sugar.

School Gardens. It is said that no fewer than 7,769 school gardens exist in Austria, not including the sister kingdom of Hungary. They are connected with both private and public schools, and are used for purposes of practical instruction in horticulture and tree-growing.

Monograph Watch. A new Swiss watch contains a tiny hard rubber monograph plate which calls out the hours loud enough to be heard twenty feet away. Sentiment can be added by having the words recorded on the plate in the tones of a dear friend—as those of a man's wife or children.

T. J. Ziegler Clothing Co. The Best Clothing for Boys

We have started out this fall to make our Boys' Department the most popular place in town to buy boys' clothes; popular with the boys because we have bought the kind of clothes that boys like; popular with the parents because we have chosen the fabrics that give the greatest amount of service, and have made them up in the most durable manner. The styles will be the best of the new season, brought out by the most expert designers of boys' and children's clothes.

Low prices will prevail. We shall follow the Ziegler custom of selling quantities of merchandise at small profits rather than a limited amount at a large profit. By this method of selling, new goods are constantly being added and our styles are always up to date.
